

Book Title: Animals in Danger (Level E2)

Author: Andy Hopkins

Publisher: Oxford Bookworms

Synopsis / Summary:

Human are a great danger to animals. They take away their habitats, kill them for medicine and make expensive things by hunting their skins and horns to become rich. They also make the sea cloudier. Nowadays, 7,000 kinds of animals are in danger.

In order to save them before being extinct, World Wildlife Fund and other volunteers raise money to help these endangered animals.

Personal Reflection:

I agree that we are a great danger to animals. We reclaim the land by covering the sea. Governments build something like beaches and dams (e.g. Three Gorges Dam) to benefit the citizens. Like Hong Kong, the government plans to build a beach in Lung Kwu Tan, so the citizens can swim there. Therefore, a rare kind of sea horse is endangered. Lots of rich people eat shark fins because they are tasty. Perhaps they don't know, if they need more shark fins, the hunters will kill more and more sharks.

The human are very cruel to animals! Therefore, the organizations should protect the animals by providing them with habitats like wetland parks, conservation areas and bamboo forests. Also, the factory should produce less toxic gas. It is good for birds, as well as human. Acid rain can be avoided. Human should not destroy the forests and we should eat less meat.

Although the animals can make us richer, we have to treasure the rare animals like leopards. No matter you like or don't like animals, please take action now to protect them.
